

I believe the FCC should allow other non traditional LEC or State TRS contractors to provide and be reimbursed for Video Relay Services. There are several organizations which have the staff and the know how to provide a top quality VRS service. Opening the market to other providers would improve the services and also reduce the costs over time.